

Kamea Dance Company

Kamea was established in Beer-Sheva Israel in 2002 as a professional repertory modern dance company in affiliation with the prestigious Bat-Dor Beer-Sheva Municipal Dance Center. Founded and co-directed by Daniella Schapria, director of the Beer-Sheva Dance Center, and Tamir Ginz, former Bat-Sheva Dance Co. dancer and Bat-Dor Tel Aviv Co. in-house choreographer. Kamea performs works by Ginz as well as by guest choreographers.

The company's repertoire brings to the stage the diverse work of its choreographers, mainly Israeli who have created works geared to different age groups. The dance pieces encompass a wide range of dance styles and are performed on a high technical and artistic level by Kamea's dancers. KAMEA is home to over a dozen dancers many graduates of the Bat-Dor Beer-Sheva school.

Tamir Ginz' latest work is entitled "Limelight" which has received excellent reviews for the breath of fresh air and vitality that it has brought to the stage. "The dynamic technique and style of the dancers has turned this piece into a truly memorable performance" Yediot Achronot 2005.
